appearance of the city the dissertation then turns to the inner core of the city and sees how urban dwellers experience the city through memories desires and fantasies it is noted that while outwardly the city is likened to a rather rational network society it is actually complicated by the human networks internally in order to locate themselves in the city individuals therefore turn to a ground level exploration of the labyrinthine city that we inhabit from the spatial images to the urban walkers who try to make sense of the city yang s films can indeed be seen as a medium that provides critical reactions to the ideologies imposed by the government and to the developments of taipei ever since the 1980s as his films are very popular in the international film festivals the dissertation explores the relationship between cinema and public criticism in fact it is observed that with the circulation of yang s films in the art house circuits there is indeed a positive side of cultural globalization an abstract of 346 words doi 10 5353 th b2914471 subjects motion picture producers and directors taiwan globalization
